

LA County | Streaming and Managing Video On-Premises

The County of Los Angeles needed a system to stream and manage their video content. However, due to security requirements, they were in search for solution that could be deployed on their premises and the solution should be such that even the vendor would not be able to access their data.

VIDIZMO offered the county with its on-premise video streaming technology that they could install and run on-premise. With an easy to deploy solution, and the option to provide professional services for specific support requirements, VIDIZMO was able to fulfill their video streaming and content management requirements while keeping their data secure and safe on their premise.
